The Rush Into Ginza: Bottega Veneta Opens Biggest Flagship Yet

By Amanda Kaiser

TOKYO — Bottega Veneta has opened its largest store in the world here in a characteristically discreet manner, opting for a quiet, chestnut tree-lined street off Ginza's main drag.

The five-floor, 9,700-square-foot Bottega Veneta complex houses three levels of retail space and the brand's full product range of apparel, leather goods, fine jewelry and home furnishings. The company's Japanese offices and showroom occupy the upper floors of the building.

Bottega Veneta will fete the store Friday. Creative director Tomas Maier
